FOREWORD

TO perpetuate the pleasant memory of the friendships, the achievements, the inspiration, and the happiness which this year has brought is the aim of the 1933 KALEIDOSCOPE. There is no surer way of keeping kindled the fires of ambition and patriotism than by recalling the lives and recounting the deeds of those who have made our country great. For this reason we have chosen the life and works of General William Henry Harrison, a son of Hampden-Sydney, as the theme of this book, since he is one who will ever be among the country's greatest soldiers, statesmen, and citizens. ~

DEDICATION

TO the memory of him who, being possessed of laudable ambition and unbounded self-confidence, in his life of public service, probably held more offices of trust and responsibility than any other man our country has produced, and whose memory the generations will not cease to cherish in pride, reverence, and honor.

[1]WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON

HAMPDEN-SYDNEY COLLEGE enjoys the honor of having trained the mind and of having instilled the principles of liberty and equity into one of the chief executives of these United States.

William Henry Harrison, the ninth President of the United States, was born at Berkeley, in Charles City County, February 9, 1773. He was the third and youngest son of Governor Benjamin Harrison, a man who most effectually aided those better known today in carrying his native state and country through the trying storm and stress period of her history. The son proved himself, as the years passed away, of his father's mettle.

About 1787, as yet merely a lad of fourteen years, the subject of our sketch entered Hampden-Sydney College. If superficially considered, it would seem quite remarkable that one so young was sent off to college. This seems, however, to have been the custom in the good old days of the eighteenth century, when men lived to act, not to study. The cause was very probably twofold. First, educational advantages in most of the counties were not good, and second, the curricula of the colleges were not then above those of our academies.

One other interesting question arises in this connection. Why did Governor Harrison choose Hampden-Sydney, in the western southside, in preference to William and Mary, especially since Berkeley was but a few hours' ride from Williamsburg? It may have been due to the weighty influence of John Blair Smith, who so ably directed affairs at the college during these years. It may have been that Governor Harrison was influenced to become a patron of the young, vigorous college to the westward by his friends, many of whom were on the Board of Trustees, for surely a school that boasted Patrick Henry as a director was one to be trusted.

As to his college life we know nothing, as almost no record has been preserved. I dare say he lived the happy life of a Hampden-Sydney boy. I dare say that often, as he sat through the long, dreary winter days beside the comfortless campfire, waiting for the Indians to come up and be whipped, his heart returned to his friends on the Hill, and that he longed to be a careless college boy once again.

The death of his father seems to be responsible, very largely, for the future career of the young man. He immediately left his medical studies, which he was then pursuing, and in a few months more was in the great Northwest Territory—encamped at Fort Washington, where Cincinnati now stands.

Pinnacles of '33 Memories

Freshman Year. Back in '29-'30—Oh! those days. Freshmen. Don't you remember your sleepless first night? Blasted Sophs nagging, teaching us to "sound off," selling us radiators— A green bunch of babies we were! An' 'mmm those water fights. Whew! whata life. Yes, and most of us were students those days—no trotting around like our upperclassman years. 'Member the Dillon-Powell firm, Trinkle's motorcycle, the bunch of huskies on Ching Graham's Freshman Squad, the Halloween apple-throwing social when all rooms were stacked, —the last five minutes of the Richmond game, when McCann ran wild 65 yards, then 55 yards for two touchdowns on the same play to win, 13-8.

Then the Rebellion—whata memory! Our unofficial meeting at 3:00 A.M. in the Π K A House, when we refused to obey the Sophs any longer— Those resolutions! and the committee who posted them that morning. Were we scared when Toone, Powell, Lineweaver, Harwood walked in on us flashing paddles, but will we ever forget how they shrivelled when Bristow, Joyner, Bohannon, Liverman and some others pushed them on out. Classes were even stopped—an' how about the newspapers and their offers for the story which we would not give. Do you recall those who stuffed rocks in stockings and carried them all the time? No '33 man walked alone. Weren't Bradshaw, Hay, an' Ropp pathetic as they scurried about impressing upon us the danger of hurting Hampden-Sydney's fine name? At last the triumph—Garden's apology before our whole class, —and we took one lick each from V. C.

Examinations—what a mess! Finals— Kay Kayser, —partings to the gang—our freshman days were over. Grief! They will never be lived again.

Sophomore Days. Everything changed—the old gang was broken up—some didn't return—Class elections—politics gained headway. Some went in for social activities in a bigger way. Some played with the "freshies"—no physical beatings—but worlds of fun.

Remember the Bridgewater game when Merle Smith booted a whale of a kick which ricocheted off a surprised and embarrassed Wallace Link? Richmond pep-meeting and our 0-0 score—could we ever forget Sloan-Robertson combination of swindlers? Student Body elections—campaign cigars Powell gave out for Garden—wow! what times.

Things moved on—warm days came—we wasted our time—when exams. came we had to cram and sweat—we would do the same if we got the chance again—remember how funny it felt to go home that year and throw off forever the feeling "last year we were only freshmen"!

Junior Year. The bunch had dwindled down—'member the feeling that now we were among the few who had common sense—or were supposed to have it—quite a hectic year! Class elections—politics again—yet everybody tried to grow serious or something.

Remember the pep-meetings when Joe Perry would pitch the hymn clean out of the room —and that Wickersham investigation after questionable Openings? That immortal snowball fight beside the gym—and the night one of us tried to bail a buddy out of jail—and made so darn much fuss that he, too, was detained—the marriage of a Senior—the rule the Board passed about it, etc.

Spring—Tennis Championships for the fourth successive year—Finals—Kay Kayser again —that awful feeling—"it won't be long now"—it started those closing days—we would have to leave these halls sometime—only one more year—it was hard not to cry with Franklin, Garden, Powell that last morning.

Senior Days. A senior—what a feeling—how queer it was not to find those old familiar faces among our gang around Shannon's, the post office, on the campus—it took so long to realize that the bunch we had been associated with were through. We few were overwhelmed with a feeling of seriousness—no more fooling around—one flunk and the degree was lost.

That immortal Richmond Game—nothing short of a riot—seven times within our five-yard line in the last quarter and still the Tigers held 0-0! Praise from state papers for our gallant eleven who all but died for H.-S. C. that day—the most glorious memory of our four years.

Mid-winters came and passed—and some of the gang thought they hadn't. We tried to settle down, but graduation was upon us before we knew it. Commencement—Finals—the girl—and tears when it was all over! Remorse! Have we—can we ever repay our Alma Mater for such memories—sweet—vivid—dear—lasting?

Junior Class History

NEARLY three years of diverse college life and activity have passed by since the Class of '34 began the vicissitudes of its turbid and troubled year in bondage to those whom we soon learned to designate as the "sophomores and upperclassmen." The "rats" might have been seen on those first days passing to and fro beneath the stately elms and majestic oaks of College Avenue and Via Sacra, to all appearances a typical class of freshmen, no different from the hundred and fifty or more other groups of new students who previously had come hither in search of wisdom.

But though the faculty might have shaken their heads in impatience at the unusual greenness of those typical freshmen and though the upper classmen might have regarded their fresh victims as no different from those others who had seen the "rod of correction" in former years, time was to prove that the Class of '34 was a "vessel set apart," in at least one outstanding sense. Quoting from the Record of January, 1931: "Wise heads may shake, but figures seem to prove that this is one of the best freshman classes we have had for some time." This has reference to the rating of the class as a whole in intelligence, a conclusion reached after investigation on the part of the Psychology Department.

The Class of '34, however, could little speak of unusual mental endowment, had it not used its natural gifts to advantage and applied its capabilities in scholarship and activities. That this has actually been the case is evidenced by the fact that the standing in the class room has been unusually striking and that an unusually large percentage have attained to either the first or second honor roll.

But this attainment in scholastic and literary pursuits has not meant the sacrifice of eminence in other fields. On the staff of the publications, in each one of the sports, in the clubs and organizations, and in the honorary fraternities—in all these she has sent forth her full quota and more of leaders and constituents.

Apart from these noteworthy achievements, the history of the class is not a varied one or is it one marked by outstanding diversity of incident or activity. We have tasted much of all that college life proffers, and have partaken, we hope, largely of the best. No sooner were the activities of the freshman year well under way, contacts and associations begun to be formed, and unusual adjustments begun to be made, than we found ourselves in the midst of the strenuous rushing season, followed soon by the unique experience of a struggle through our first college examinations. Meanwhile, many had learned to know the S. T. C. as a favorite "stamping-ground." Though abundant space should be allowed, no history could do justice to the rich experiences of "rat" life, and perhaps it was with a tinge of regret that we saw rat caps discarded and the end of the year creep on. We believe the sophomores of two sessions ago sincerely lived up to their resolution to show the Class of '34 "how a freshman class ought to be treated" and the spirit of friendliness and cooperation which existed is indeed one of the most pleasant chapters of our history.

Perhaps the fact that we entered Hampden-Sydney almost with the beginning of the depression is significant, but at any rate the class is known as one that is stable—firm in resolution and marked by fixedness of purpose. This is evidenced partly by the fact that an unusually small number have failed to return to school from year to year.

We trust that the closing chapter of our annals, yet to be written, will be in keeping with the history which has already been recorded on the memory of every man of the Class of '34.

Sophomore History

IT IS not for us to say whether the nation-wide or even the world-wide advertisement of this "Small College Great" had anything to do with it or not; however when the college opened its doors for its 156th consecutive session the largest freshman class of its entire history was enrolled; one hundred and twenty-eight Who's Who embryos.

It wasn't long after we had appeared on the campus until the traditional order to don rat caps was issued. Although the despairing report had just been received from the Psychology Department, we were not able to understand why the rat caps felt so small. However we soon learned that they were made that way so they would fit when our heads had reduced to the size that is normal for a freshman after taking orders for a few weeks.

When we were released from freshman rules in the spring and our pride had had time to regain its supernatural status, we became so sure of ourselves that we even wished to shave the heads of a few of the upper classmen who did not show the proper respect to our privileges.

In September of 1932 we proved that we were not content with the distinction of having been the largest freshman class in history by returning as a class of one hundred and three to constitute the largest sophomore class in Hampden-Sydney's history.

Due to our ever increasing affection for our college and our more zealous ambitions scholastically, socially and athletically, we wager that, when the time comes for the final count, we will also be the largest graduating class that this college has ever known.

Early in the fall of 1931 the Class of '35 showed excellent judgment in their choice of a leader when they elected Jack Humphries to be their president. The Class was so well pleased with their choice that there wasn't any question in their minds as to who should lead them in 1932, so Jack was again honored with the office. It was indeed with great enthusiasm that we also elected three stalwart gentlemen to the Vigilance Committee who should administer justice to those of the freshman class who fell into evil ways and we feel sure that the culprits will profit morally if not physically by an appearance before this organization.

One week after college opened in 1931, the freshman football team played the former State Champion High School team and won a decidedly moral if not a literal victory over them. This gives an idea at least of the quality of the material contained in the Class of '35 and now that idea has become a reality. Basketball and baseball have both proved to the taste of our classmates as shown by their expertness in the Gymnasium and on the diamond. It should be quite sufficient to state that a member of our class holds the all-time school record for the two-mile run and that he is ably supported by many more who have taken part in this branch of athletics.

The spirit that is so characteristic of Hampden-Sydney has not been taken carelessly by the members of '35. With this inspiration and the help that we have received here, our ambitions have soared to new heights. Whether these ambitions to become Doctors, Lawyers, Ministers, Teachers, etc., are idle day-dreams or not will of course take years to prove. However, the Class of '35 is proud of Hampden-Sydney and we are going to do our very best to make her more than proud of us, although we may not be renowned to posterity as members of the illustrious Who's Who.

THERE was no football, basketball, or baseball at Hampden-Sydney in General Harrison's day. The only form of athletics was horseback riding. They were more given then than now to debates and literary societies. All of them adored oratory; General Harrison himself turned out to be a finished orator, having laid the foundation for his ready speech at Hampden-Sydney.

FOOTBALL

C. A. Bernier, Head Coach

Hampden-Sydney vs. Richmond

Resume of Football Season

The Tigers enjoyed a rather successful football season for the past year, placing fourth in the Conference with a record of one win, one loss and two ties and three wins, three lossess, and two ties. Three frosh made the first string team: Preston, Formwalt, and Price, while White, Levering, Douglass, Dallas Ogden, and Doval Ogden made the squad. Hardaway, Daughtry, and Humphries comprised a trio of dangerous backs with Spotswood rounding out a formidable backfield at quarter. Injuries to Hardaway, and Nance, the sparkplug of the line, hurt the team.

The opening game was played on the night

American U. vs. H.-S.

H. E. Smith, Assistant Coach

of September 16th at Newport News against the Newport News Apprentice School. This was in the nature of a practice game and was won by the Tigers, 15 to 6. The sparkling play of Cass Hardaway predominated until an injury to his neck in the beginning of the second half sent him from the game. Following this, the Tigers played Virginia at Scott Field, in Charlottesville. Handicapped by the loss of Hardaway and the ineligibility of freshmen, the Tigers lost, 32 to 0. The playing of Johnny Ferry at end was the bright spot for the Bernier-men. In this game, Hampden-Sydney was smothered by a heavier and more powerful team.

The opening home game was played October 8th against Bridgewater. This game was won easily by Hampden-Sydney, 42 to 13, with Daughtrey doing most of the scoring for the home team. On the 15th, American University was met at Death Valley and vanquished, 31 to 19. Presenting a stronger and better coached team than they had the previous year, American was still no match for the Tigers. An aerial attack in the closing stages of the game accounted for most of the visitors' points.

Home-coming was the feature at Death Valley on October 15th and the Randolph-Macon Yellow Jackets furnished the competition for the Tigers' final home game. Before a large crowd, the two teams battled to a scoreless tie in a thrilling game that was featured by excellent punting on the part of both teams.

On the 22nd was played the annual game with the Richmond Spiders. Rated two or three touchdowns inferior to the Spiders, Hampden-Sydney covered itself with glory by holding the Dobsonites to a scoreless tie. Seven times the Tigers held Richmond within the ten yard line and prevented a score. One time, in the fourth quarter, Hardaway slipped through the entire Richmond team to run thirty yards before being tackled from behind by Levering. Humphries' punting was a bright light of this game. October 29 was an open date, but November 5 saw Roanoke whip Hampden-Sydney 14 to 0, on two long runs by Russell. Nance had broken his ankle in practice and been put out for the rest of the season and in the second quarter of this game, Hardaway suffered a severe ankle sprain that ended his football career for the remainder of the year. On November 12th, Hampden-Sydney played Johns Hopkins at Baltimore and was defeated by one touchdown, 7 to 0. After holding the higher rated Hopkins team scoreless in the first half, the Tigers fell victim to a long pass that netted a touchdown and victory.

The season closed in Richmond on the 19th when Hampden-Sydney decisively defeated St. Johns, 25 to 7, on a field covered with mud and water. In this game, Captain Nottingham closed his college football career by intercepting a St. Johns pass and running twenty yards for the Tigers' fourth touchdown. This game also sang the swan song of Marion Humphries, Will Chappell, and George Krupka.

WE are indeed sorry that we were not able to give proper recognition to Baseball and Track in this Athletic section. As originally planned, these sports were to receive the same amount of space as Football and Basketball. However, due to the fact that we were unable to obtain the uniforms, we had to extract some pages because of lack of material.

Our view section, which is the most beautiful and most expensive ever featured in the KALEIDOSCOPE was made possible through this shortening of the Athletic section. For this reason, we invoke your kindest consideration and believe that you will hesitate before blaming us.

DURING the period that General Harrison was Governor of the Territory of Indiana, he called the great Indian Chief Tecumseh to a council at Vincennes. The chief declined to take the chair which was provided for him, preferring himself on the ground, saying, "The earth is my mother and on her bosom I will recline." On this as well as repeatedly the case, General Harrison's quick presence of mind and knowledge of military tactics saved him from dire destruction. ~ ~ ~ ~ ~

AS Commander-in-Chief of the Army of the Northwest in 1812, General Harrison ended hostilities in that part of the country by his victory in the memorable Battle of the Thames. There he captured the entire British army and Tecumseh himself was killed in the battle. The General shared the privations of his men and demanded only that he have available three of the best horses in the army, which were essential for the Commanding General.

The 1933 KALEIDOSCOPE Staff presents this volume to you. Its contents were possible only through your presence and activity. To its composition we have given our undivided time and are confident that you will appreciate the effort that has been put into it.

There is, indeed, a certain similarity in all college annuals which is retained for the sake of consistency; however, in this edition of THE KALEIDOSCOPE the staff has endeavored to produce a volume differing from established forms, and possessing a certain amount of originality.

The Tiger has made a distinguished name for itself since its birth under the capable executive abilities of Barrye Wall some twelve years ago.

It began because of a desire to serve Hampden-Sydney through some medium which would evidence the Student Body's interests and feelings, and it continues an esteemed chronicle of weekly events on the Hill.

Editorially, it stands for free expression of student opinions and is not hampered by Faculty censorship; therefore it earnestly tries to help the principles for which Hampden-Sydney stands.

The circulation of the Tiger was increased almost one-third this year, making possible a number of additional exchange names and more widely selected mailing lists.

The advertising value of the Tiger has merited numerous national advertising contracts in the past three years, and if this holds true in the future the financial status of the newspaper can allow many new features for improvement to be inserted that heretofore have been impossible because of the small income from student fees.

The 1932-1933 Magazine celebrated its Golden Jubilee of existence, and presented a somewhat improved editorial policy under a capable staff of faithful writers.

Attempts were made to add many new features to better the appearance of the publication, and for the first time four-color process work was offered. Pictures were often inserted and ornaments were carefully selected to make one of the most attractive literary magazines in the state. The reading material per issue was a little more than doubled that of former years.

Advertising rates for the Magazine were raised in order to assure financial backing sufficient to realize the numerous improvements proposed by the editorial staff.

The circulation was amazingly increased until it boasted the largest circulation of any of Hampden-Sydney's publications, and efforts were realized to have the Golden Jubilee volume recognized nationally in literary circles of exclusive nature.

Exchanges were made all over the United States with important college magazines.

Just browsing around with the snap-shot man will do more to prolong the memories of our happy college days than all the rest of the Annual together.

Of course, we all recognize the ole Monogram Club Goats, the inseparable trio: Doval, Samuel and Dallas, and the three able cheer leaders in the height of their glory.

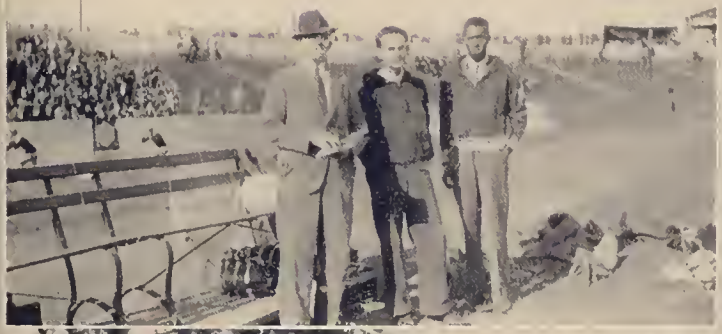

We are indebted to Mr. B. S. Oliver for this pose. It is rumored that he will be a candidate for the next mayor of Hampden-Sydney.

There is nothing like a nice cold shower on a warm summer day—so Bowen says.

The Managers: Franklin, Jack, and, last but not least, especially when it comes to the work, Horace.

Remember the excitement when they cut down the old (pine) tree?

Would you call this a Lily or a Pansy? Well, we will let you in on the secret—it is Bill Price goating for the Monogram Club.

Do you suppose Dr. Wilson felt as lazy as he looks in this picture? I suppose it is just another case of Spring Fever.

The Editor caught off guard.

The fate of a football Manager. Keep up the good work, Jordon.

Pulling into the Stadium for the big Richmond game.

A few signals, before the kick-off in the memorable Richmond Game.

Will Chappell still reads his Rat Bible. Guess he is brushing up on the Student Council rules.

It seems that Dr. Booker has reverted to the college boy's trick, in that he has a freshman sweeping the campus for him.

Some unusual views, taken from different angles of our campus.

Marshall Brown, one of the land-marks of Hampden-Sydney.

These freshmen seem to know how it is done. No doubt they have had plenty of practice.

Mr. Daniel making his rounds to his many furnaces. Hope there is some hot water!

Dr. Booker looking over the situation, and wondering, I suppose, if college boys will ever stop throwing paper around on the campus.

THE staff of the 1933 KALEIDOSCOPE takes this opportunity to remind the readers of this volume that it was made possible largely through the cooperation of our advertisers.

In reading the following pages note carefully who our friends in business are and always favor them when buying.

They support our publications; the least we can do in appreciation is to support them.

HAMPDEN-SYDNEY COLLEGE

This Institution opened its doors on January 1, 1776, and is the only college in America from which the students entered the Revolutionary War in a body.

Among its character trustees were James Madison, afterwards President of the United States, and Patrick Henry.

It stands high among the list of "small colleges" which have sent from their halls a remarkable number of leaders and successful men in every profession, in every walk of life. It has always adhered to the standards of high scholarship and gentlemanly conduct. It is definitely Christian in its beliefs and outlook. In its courses of study it meets modern requirements.

The Degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science Are Given
